

England Hockey Safeguarding Education and Training Guidance

It is essential that all people who work with under 18's in hockey receive training that is appropriate to their role.

Having suitably trained people within your club/organisation provides a better experience for young people, on and off the pitch and also protects coaches, umpires and volunteers.

Hockey relies on people with the right skills and knowledge working to inspire, encourage and nurture young people to play / participate to their maximum potential, in a fun and enjoyable environment.

Recruiting the people into the right role is an essential part of the process, ensuring that appropriate checks are completed. Once those people are in their role it's important to assess their training needs.
